"I'LL SEND AROUND HIS CLOTHES," SAYS "JERRY"

Songbird Farrar and Husband Again Demonstrate That They Hate Publicity

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—The curtain fell today upon the second act of that little drama of home life, "matrimony," in which Geraldine Farrar, world famous American prima donna and Lou Tellegen, he of the longest lashes in captivity, have been co-starred during a five-year run.

It fell upon the spectacle of the gorgeous matinee idol locked out of his wife's Seventy-fourth street home, and his lawyer departing with "the papers" to serve them upon the diva in an action for separation.

Farrar's closing line was: "Tell Lou, if he'll leave his address, I'll send around his clothes."

The next act will show a scene in the New York courts, to which the action probably will be transferred from Winchester county.

FIRST ACT IN 1916

The first act in the Farrar-Tellegen comedy-farce-tragedy opened in 1916, when the couple were united in wedlock. The diva had many times expressed herself as holding the belief that real artists should not marry.

"I have locked the doors of matrimony long ago, and thrown away the key," was one of her best lines.

The line recurred to Lou in the second act, when the love comedy had become a farce and he shivered on the doorstep, trying to gain admittance to "Jerry's residence."

The word "obey" was left out of the ceremony which made them one.

Five years are supposed to have elapsed during the intermission between the first and second acts.

The second act opens late in July, 1921, with Lou vacationing at Long Beach.

HA! MYSTERIOUS STRANGER

Enter a mysterious stranger, who proves to be one of Mrs. Tellegen's lawyers, with a letter which says that "certain differences" have arisen and that "under no circumstances are you (Lou) to enter Mrs. Tellegen's house or approach her in any manner."

All Lou's Dutch-French-Greek-Spanish blood boils over at the suggestion, and he makes a dash for the Seventy-fourth street residence, where Geraldine is living.

The blinds are down, but he thinks he catches sight of some one peeping out from behind them. Assured of an audience, he tries key after key in a vain effort to get in, but some stage hand has changed the lock during the summer.

CRUEL TO THE BELL

Then he leans on the bell for three long minutes. Nothing doing. And then, cruelest blow of all, he gets a note from Geraldine's lawyer.

"If you will advise Mrs. Tellegen as to your address, or the address you prefer to use, she will forward to you your wearing apparel and personal effects."

With a hard laugh, the great actor staggers off into the wings. Neither Mr. nor Mrs. Tellegen could be interviewed between the acts. They both hate publicity.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 6.—Fresh heavy defeats have been inflicted upon the Turkish Nationalist forces by the Greeks. King Constantine's forces now command the southern exit of the famous Chetve positions. A decisive battle is pending.

EYESIGHT FAILED

TOPEKA, Kan.—The reporter admitted he had worked on an interesting assignment.

His "chief" ordered him to act as "hosiery checker" for 30 minutes at one of Topeka's busiest street corner intersections. Out of 389 women who passed the corner i nthe allotted time, the reporter counted 170 who wore white hose, 136 who wore black hose and 62 who wore brown.

Because of strained eyesight he was unable to give any figures on the number he had seen "rolled down."

SEARCHERS FAIL TO FIND TRACE OF COLMA PRIEST

(By International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6.—Search for the missing Father Patrick E. Heslin of Colma, believed held for $6500 ransom, was directed to the Portona Hills region today, following a mysterious telephone call received by Father Cantrell, secretary to Archbishop Hanna.

The man who called Father Cantrell on the phone refused to give his name, but advised that a search be made of a cave in the Portona hills, where he said a band of Italians lived. Th information was at once communicated to the police, and several officers started to the point indicated.

EXPERT GIVES TIP

Another tip was received from Chauncey McGovern, handwriting expert, who has been working on the case. He advised a search of a shack in a lonely canyon near Montara. This was also to be investigated.

But one tangible clue was in the hands of the officers today, and they admitted that it might prove valueless. It was a copy of a Catholic breviary picked up by searchers on the Pedro Valley road, a mile from the "old adobe house." Searchers believe the book might have been dropped by Father Heslin as a clue to guide searchers. There was no mark in the book, however, to indicate that it was his.

The "old adobe house," once a rendezvous of a band of criminals, was minutely searched, but gave up no information.

ARMED COWBOYS ENLIST

Headed by Detective Sergeant G. Merchant, a large posse of cowboys, heavily armed, left Palo Alto today to search the hills of that region for trace of the priest. The cowboys were recruited from the Louis O'Neal ranch. This search resulted from information that an automobile had been seen on the highway headed south, carrying four men, one of whom was a priest.

Many officers frankly admitted that they expect to find the dead body of the missing priest. They declare that the character of the ransom note received by Archbishop Hanna indicates that the Colma pastor was in the hands of a desperate gang, and that the intensive search for Father Heslin may have caused them to do away with him and hide the body.

BURNED BRUSH; NOW IN DURANCE

H. Souza, of Sunland, was before Judge Decker of San Fernando yesterday to answer to the charge of burning bursh without a permit from a deputy fire warden. He pleaded guilty and was given a sharp reprimand and a jail sentence of 30 days.

The judge said that hereafter, all such offenders will receive severe sentences, as he is determined to stop violations of the county ordinance which prohibits the burning of brush without a permit.

County Fire Warden Stuart JJ. Flintham has instructed the deputy fire wardens to strictly enforce the ordinance in the interest of public safety.

CONGRESS CONFLICT OVER FINANCES NOW ACUTE

Expect President to Straighten Out Existing Tangle Over 1922 Tax Plans

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—President Harding is coming home from his vacation to find another conflict in progress between the executive and legislative branches of the government.

It appeared certain today that only presidential intervention can straighten out the tangle over the 1922 taxes and end the dispute between Congress and the treasury department over how much is necessary to keep the wheels of the government turning for another year.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and his advisers, with an eye to the spending needs of the government, estimate the government will need $4,550,000,000, and they have put up to Congress the job of providing.

CONGRESSMEN WORRYING

Members of Congress, with an eye to the coming congressional elections, on which their political lives depend, estimate that these figures can be trimmed by at least $500,000,000, perhaps more. So far they have refused to figure on a national spending bill of more than $4,500,000,000.

And there the deadlock exists. Both sides are standing pat and apparently waiting for some word from on high.

The principal difficulty is a difference in policy between the treasury department and Congress. The treasury favors a "pay-as-you-enter" policy, with current bills paid on the spot from current revenues.

BURDEN ON PUBLIC

Many leaders in Congress contend that this is unnecessary, that it is putting too heavy a burden on the public this year to expect the already weary taxpayer to take up the war-time slack in a single year.

Meanwhile, the controversy already has provided some embarrassments. Senator Borah, Republican, of Idaho, who successfully brought about the reduction of the army from 220,000 men to 150,000 men in the face of strong administration opposition, is again on the economy warpath. This time he wants the army still further reduced to 100,000 men and has introduced a resolution to this effect.

MAY BRING BOYS HOME

The sentiment in Congress for bringing home the 14,000 American troops on the Rhine, which has been lying dormant since the change in administration, is again being worked up in view of the demand for economy.

GLENDALE SCOUTS TO MALIBU RANGE

More than 30 boy scouts belonging to four Glendale troops will attend the annual encampment, the last week in August, to be held at Mountain Craggs in the Big Malibu range, according to arrangements made yesterday by Benjamin Robison Jr., scout director. Mr. Robison says the camp site selected possesses all the requisites for scout activities. There will be ample opportunity for hiking, swimming and fishing. The program calls for sports, contests and games.

Troops 1, 2 and 3 have now been rechartered. Troop 4 will undergo reorganization at once. Members of Troops 1 and 4 are asked to report as soon as possible to Mr. Robison for instructions.

FILM SCENE SHOT HERE

Within eight blocks of the crowded center of the city, a party of ten automobiles were shot this morning and all survived. The shooting occured along East Broadway. The party consisted of photoplayers from the Universal Film Company, under the leadership of Director Golding. The last report was that the shooting was successful and that the film will recover and duly advertise Glendale's thoroughfare.

BABE RUTH'S TASK TODAY

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Babe Ruth must make three home runs today if he wants to catch up with his 1920 record.

By failing to register his thirty-ninth homer off George Dauss in Friday's game, Babe fell one homer behind. On August 6, last year, he made two circuit swats off Dauss at Detroit and if he does not connect for a trio of home runs he will be behind for the first time this season.

DRILLERS GET SIGNS OF OIL IN WELL NEAR BURBANK

Hollinsworth Ranch Site of Prospective Payer of Big Dividends to Promoters

Persons in this part of the San Fernando Valley who are interested in the Hollingsworth oil field on the Hollingsworth ranch, three miles east of Burbank, are experiencing thrills today because of indications of oil which appear to point to immediate production of value.

The sluiceway running from the lip of the well this morning showed in the mucky blue shale unmistakable patches of light oily. According to H. A. Gaddie, president of the Gaddie Oil Development Company, who is directing operations at the well, promising indications of oil have been encountered for several weeks, but he did not deem it wise to make public the discovery until there was absolute certainty.

The well is now at a depth of 3275 feet. It was started about two and one-half years ago but was forced to shut down during the war because of a lack of equipment. Drilling has been particularly active during the past year. Tucked away from the main roads in the hills east of Universal City, few persons knew of the existence of a well in the locality.

LOCATED BY INSTRUMENT

As a result of the discovery of oil seepages in the vicinity, within a radius of a half mile, investigation was made which led to the final location of the well. This was accomplished by the Frank-Calhoun Locating Company of San Francisco, which claims to have perfected an instrument which registers the location and extent of oil. In more than 600 trials, it is said, the instrument has never been known to fail in indicating the location of oil.

Vast possibilities are seen for the future of the San Fernando Valley by directors of the company, if the well turns out to be successful. It is pointed out that the development of oil in the valley would add materially to the growth of towns in this district. The Hollingsworth field promoters, who have a lease of 160 acres, propose to sink other wells as soon as this well is productively paying.

CLOSE CORPORATION

The group of men interested in the well comprise a closed corporation. A successful effort has thus far been made to keep any individual from acquiring a controlling number of shares. Of $150,000 in capital stock, $75,000 worth has been sold. The balance is retained in the treasury. It is reported that no promotion stock has been issued.

The directors of the company are all Los Angeles business or professional men. They include Dr. W. K. Chambers, Dr. L. L. Haight, George L. Triggs and W. M. Hiatt. The latter is secretary.

LENINE IS PLANNING VISIT TO ENGLAND

LONDON Aug. 6.—Reports that Nicolai Lenine, premier of Soviet Russia, is about to visit England, were revived today in a dispatch from Reval, which said that he would come to this country about the middle of the month. In his absence, the dispatch said, Leon Trotsky, Bolshevik war minister, will be in full control at Moscow.

IS HE?

TOPEKA, Kan.—What's in a name?

The Department of Vital Statistics of the state of Kansas is commencing to think there is a great deal to interest the public in some names. Some of the names that are sent in to the department with the record of a birth are so "freakish" that it is hard to believe that fond parents actually have "tagged" their offspring with such queer names.

A Kansas family by the name of Bruno sent in the name of their heir apparent as Noble—Noble Bruno. In another section of the state lives the Nutt family. One of its progeny is called Pleasant Nutt. Another tot who will have a mighty hard time learning to spell her own name is called Dolores Antoinette Gwendolyn Huippelshenser. The stork brought twins to a family by the name of Gist. The twins drew these names from the "lottery basket"—Adam and Eve.

Doughboy of A.E.F., on Guard, Centralia, Wash.

(By International News Service)

AMERICUS, Ga., Aug. 6.—The American Legion has found the bit of sculpture which its national memorial committee declares accomplishes its highest art. Within a short time this work of a Georgia artist will be standing at Centralia, Wash., which was the scene of bloody Armistice Day fighting between heroes of the World War and I. W. W. A large replica of the original will be placed in a prominent public place at Centralia. Smaller statues of the work of art are being widely distributed.

The sculptor is E. M. Viquesney of Americus, who produced the model after two years' work.

The figure is that of a helmeted infantryman in heavy equipment and with a rifle with bayonet fixed in his hand. In the other hand he holds aloft a hand grenade. He is ripping through wire entanglements. From his neck hangs his gas mask ready for use.

The strain and excitement of the advance are shown vividly in the drawn face and open mouth.

MEXICANS CONFESS TO BURGLARY OF GELMOR STORE

The men who broke into the tailoring shop of A. Gelmor, of 138 South Brand boulevard, have been arrested at Long Beach and confessed to the theft. They are being held by the police at Long Beach. They had converted some of the stolen silks into shirts and petticoats for sale. The remainder of the loot they sold. The police of Glendale, Long Beach and Los Angeles are trying to trace the missing goods, although little success is expected.

According to the three men, who are Mexicans, they had started through the San Fernando valley with a truck, to find a store that would be easy to loot. After two days in Glendale, during which they slept in the truck on the outskirts of the city, they selected Gelmor's establishment, on the fine showing of silks in the window.

At 8 o'clock on the night of the robbery, they drove the truck up the alley to the back door, which they entered easily, and proceeded to carry out the silks and satin trimmings in Gelmor's stock.

"While we were there," one of the thieves stated, "a policeman looked in the front window, but he did not see us, and we kept on taking out the stuff."

After an hour, during which they were undisturbed, the thieves said they left with the goods in the truck and drove to Long Beach, where they began cutting up some of the silk pieces, which they made into shirts and petticoats, to be sold from door to door.

Mr. Gelmor went to Long Beach and identified about $100 worth of the loot, found with the thieves, as his property. The names of the prisoners were withheld by the police.

LADIES' AUXILIARY TO BE GUESTS OF LOCAL LEGION

An entertaining program marked the first August meeting of the local post of the American Legion last night at Legion headquarters. A part of the evening was given over to business of a varied nature and a luncheon was served "a la mess line" to top off the ceremonies.

J. A. Lewis entertained with a group of songs and was immediately drafted into service for future meetings. Richardson D. White, superintendent of schools, gave a brief pointed talk on his experience at the National Education Association convention which he attended in Des Moines early in July. He showed how Americanization ideals of the schools link up with those of the American Legion

Upon motion it was arranged that the Executive Committee of the Legion will in future review all measures and communications that come before the post. This will cut down on the length of time customarily devoted in business meetings to such work. N. R. Whytock was initiated into membership of the legion.

Big doings are on foot for next Friday's meeting, when members of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Legion will be asked to attend. It is planned to foster a closer intimacy between the activities of the auxiliary and the Legion itself.

An interesting program has been arranged for this meeting, which includes vocal selections by J. A. Lewis, musical entertainment by Dr. H. V. Brown and a talk by R. D. White.

HIGH-SPEED AGENT FAILS TO PLEASE MR. DEAKIN

Sewing Machine "Forced" On Housewife, Who Parts With Watch

A new sewing machine reposes on the front porch of the home of J. J. Deakin, a warning, according to Mr. Deakin, to all housewives visited by speedy agents.

A high-speed salesman called on Mrs. Deakin, while she was alone in the house, yesterday, got his foot in the door, held it open, and before Mrs. Deakin could grasp the situation, had her name on a contract for the purchase of the machine. She repeated that she had no money in the house with which to make the first payment.

"No money in the house? Never heard of such a thing!" said the speedy one. "You've got a watch, jewelry, something of value?"

Of course, Mrs. Deakin had a watch. Hardly before she knew what had happened, the machine was on the porch and the watch was in the speedy one's pocket, hitting into the middle distance on a fast Ford.

When Mr. Deakin arrived and studied the situation, he moved the machine onto the porch and notified the company to take it away. And he wanted the watch back. The company said it could not be done. The contract was perfectly good.

"I think Glendale ought to be warned so as to be ready when the speed boy arrives," said Mr. Deakin today. "They are going to take that machine back all right, but such methods are not appreciated. Whether we get the watch back is another question."

SOUTH GLENDALE BOOSTERS' MEETING

Ms. E. V. Bacon, secretary of the South Glendale improvement association, reports that the meeting held Thursday night in the municipal building, Brand boulevard and Los Feliz road, was devoted to the discussion of the proposed widening of Los Feliz road and other matters affecting that part of the city, in which the members are interested. No vote was taken on any proposition.

BROCKTON PILGRIMS MAY LOCATE HERE

Mrs. J. S. Walker of 461 Vine street experienced great pleasure Thursday afternoon, when her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Cushing arrived by auto from Brockton, Mass. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Bacheldor, of the same city. This is the fourth time the Cushings have come by auto to California. The other times they sold their car here and returned by train, but this time they have come to stay, and may select Glendale for their place of residence as, they say it is more attractive than any other town they passed through on their journey. At present they are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walker.

An automobile driven by Florence Whalley, of Tujunga, collided yesterday afternoon with a truck which was being operated by Harold Hastings, of 520 Chaplain street, Pasadena, the accident occurring on the highway near La Crescenta. "HOME, SWEET HOME"

FREEPORT, O.— This story proves that the mule, like the fabled cat, "comes back." A mule born on a farm near Piedmont, Harrison county, ten years ago, was shipped to Wheeling, W. Va. It later was shipped by train to Cadiz and assigned to work in a coal mine.

Recently, it made an unauthorized trip to its birthplace. The animal, accompanied by a collie dog, left its pasture near the mine at night, arriving at its native feedbox, fifteen miles distant, at daybreak.

JESSE SMITH DENIES REPORT OF CHANGE IN FORD CARS

Jesse E. Smith, Ford agent for Glendale, says the public is being misled by a statement published in Los Angeles dailies and some other papers to the effect that the Ford Company is making changes in the style and construction of its touring car, the statements declaring the intent of the company to install a one-man top and rain ventilating wind shield, and to make other changes.

A copy of a communication in regard to the matter from Manager Ryan of the Ford factories, to the Los Angeles Branch has reached Mr. Smith and is being sent to all dealers in this territory. It emphatically denies that the Ford Motor Company contemplates making changes of any form or nature in its touring model, and wants prospective purchasers to know that there is absolutely no foundation for the report; that they can place their orders with positive assurance there will be no change.

The building is owned by Chris Smith, 809 South Verdugo Road.

Slight damage was done to Mr. Richardson's machine.

NEW AUTO PAINTING, TOP AND OILS SHOP OPENS HERE

A combination shop has opened its doors to the discriminating motorist this week in the form of Top Shop, Paint Shop and Lubricating Station on West Colorado street.

This triangle affiliation is run in its respective order by Messrs Johnson, Cox and McBryde. Mr. Johnson is an old established top man and moved from his former location in the Club Garage.

Mr. Cox has an established business in La Crescenta where for the past few years he has been catering to the trade of that place and Glendale.

The McBryde system of lubrication has a solid foundation and this is another of their string of racks where results are guaranteed or money refunded.

Altogether this combination should add business to the community and make friends for the three.

VALLEY AUTO MEN GAIN NEW FIRMS IN MEMEBERS

Local automobile dealers and accessory men are fast taking advantage of the combine of the San Fernando and San Gabriel Auto Trades Association, according to W. P. Battelle, secretary-manager of the association, who has been interviewing the local dealers. It is expected within a short time the Glendale contingent will increase over 100 per cent and with the rest of the members the San Gabriel Association will be up with the leaders of the state.

Mr. Battelle says he expects to spend most of next week in Glendale arranging for new members and the coming meeting of the association, which will bring over 100 members to this city the latter part of the month.

California Auto Trades Prepare for Tahoe Meet

Plans have been completed for the Northern Division meeting of the California Automobile Trade Association at Lake Tahoe, August 15th and 16th, and several hundred members of the association are expected to be on hand there when George Haberfelde, state president, calls the meeting to order, Monday, August 15th.

This organization has done a yoeman work in eliminating the crooked garage man, and the "gyp" motor car dear, and is fighting hard to make the automotive business cleaner, and better. Their slogan "clean and attractive places of business" has borne fruit in the whole state. There are a thousand and one find garages and service stations here now, where there were only one or two a few years ago.

Then too an automobile owner can be assured honest treatment in the place of business where the blue wheel asd golden radiator insignia of the association is displayed.

The Sacramento local of the California Automobile Trade Asspciation is handling the details of the Northern Division Meeting, and from the replies received at the office of Robert W. Martland, Secretary-Manager, there will be a huge attendance at the lake resort.

There is much business to be transacted, and many problems confronting the whole industry to be thrashed out. There will be business meetings the first day, and the general meeting the second day.

The Association, which is divided in crafts, that is men in the same division of the trade, meet alone, holds a general meeting where the various craft chairmen report. Then general discussion results.

Much good comes from these meetings, and Lake Tahoe promises to be the best ever held in the state.

MYSTERY CORPSE EXCITES SUNLAND

While digging a cesspool yesterday at the corner of First and North streets, Sunland, William Graham uncarthed a rude redwood coffin containing the remains of a man, apparently long buried. The discovery has cast an element of mystery about the little foothill town.

Settlers, as far back as 1885, who were called to inspect the body, assert that in the range of their knowledge no burial took place there. This has led to a general belief that the man must have been one of the pioneer settlers of the Sunland district, who died prior to 1885.

The body is in a remarkable state of preservation. It is that of a young man having reddish hair and whose clothing is of a cowboy character. The coroner has been notified and it is expected that an investigation will be conducted today.

BRAND BUSINESS DISTRICT GROWS

Ground will be broken early next week for the erection of a two-story brick business block on South Brand boulevard in the space immediately north of where the Citizens' Building is under construction. This building will add materially to the "built up" appearance of the business section of the city.

The structure will be of French type with an arch fronting the street. The lower floor will accommodate four stories, while the second story will be given over to eight offices and two halls. Sumner Maurice Spaulding of the Hibernian Building, Los Angeles, is the architect.

Present plans call for the completion of the building within two two months. The owner is H. A. Sperl, general sales manager of the Packard, Reo and Dort Automobile agency of Los Angeles.

A picture of the building is on display in the realty offices of Endicott & Larsen, 116 South Brand boulevard, who are local agents for store and office space in the building.

FAMILY REUNION HELD AT BEACH

Another big and jolly reunion of the Houston family, of which C. W. Houston of this city is a member, took place at popular Manhattan Beach this afternoon—a family picnic, at which the guest of honor was First Lieutenant Edwin Locke, nephew of Mr. Houston. The lieutenant is in the United States army and has been granted a three weeks' furlough to come to the coast and visit his relatives. They have not seen him for three years and then for but a brief farewell as he was leaving for overseas during the war. Since that time "much water has run under the bridge" and the stripling youth has become a man. He is accompanied by two army officer friends, to whom he is showing the sights of Southern California. Twenty-four were present at the reunion.

CONTRACTOR RETTS BUSY

C. M. Retts of Park avenue has purchased a lot, 90x162 feet in size, at Palmer avenue and Boynton street, where he expects to construct four small homes as soon as arrangements can be made. He is at this time building a four-room dwelling on Acacia street, east of Glendale avenue, which, when completed, will be rented.

LOOK OUT FOR YOUR BATTERY; IT WILL LAST LONGER

The importance of regular attention to a storage battery cannot be too strongly emphasized says Mr. E. W. Cizeak, local Willard dealer. Faithful observance to the following rules will prevent battery trouble and prevention is not only better than cure, but it costs less.

1. Test all cells with a Hydrometer outfit first and fifteenth of every month. If any cells are below 1.275 on two successive dates, take the battery to a Battery Service Station and have it fully charged. In taking these readings, care should be exercised to return the electrolyte from the hydrometer syringe to the same battery cell from which it was taken.

2. Test the capacity of the generator. With the motor not running and all the lights burning, take the ammeter reading, which will naturally be on the discharge side of the dial. Then with the lights out and the car running at a speed of fifteen to twenty miles per hour, take a second reading. This reading should show on the charge side of the dial. Compare the two readings. The second should always exceed the first by at least a small margin. Consult the Service Station Dealer for details.

3. The car owner should visit his Service Station regularly and frequently. It is sometimes difficult for a car owner to find the cause of battery trouble, even with such a careful explanation as has been given.

Willard Service Stations not only remedy the trouble before it has gone too far, but will also tell you why it has happened and how to avoid it. The station will make hydrometer tests for you, fill your battery and teach you how to look after it. It is the Willard man's job to keep your battery in good condition. Make use of his service.

NEW 'CORNER CLUB' IN LOS ANGELES

Twenty-five young women of the Christian Circle club of Glendale last evening attended the dedication of the Girls' Corner club, which has been established by Mrs. Frances Neth, at Seventh and Flower streets, Los Angeles.

Mrs. Neth is the "mother" of the C. C. club and its members ar keenly interested in the work she is undertaking. Miss Mildred Elliott, president of the C. C. club, presented Mrs. Neth with a bouquet of asters and ageratum, and led the members of her club in a cheer for the lady they were honoring.

The program included a pianologue by Mrs. Bush, of Los Angeles; several vocal solos, and talks by Dr. J. A. Francis and Mrs. Neth, who explained the object of the club and asked for its support in the way of donations which will make possible the furnishing of the rooms.

An unexpected incident of the evening was the arrival of a bridal party, in search of Dr. Francis. He was equal to the emergency and so the bride, Miss Helen G. Bell, and her fiance, R. A. Hickman, both of Los Angeles, were united in the presence of about 250 witnesses, when they had expected quiet nuptials in the doctor's study.

OPEN AUTO MARTS ARE UNSIGHTLY

In Southern California where open air sports are famous the year round an unsightly condition has arisen which should be stopped, say officials of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

This condition is found in practically every town and city in the southern counties of the state, it is pointed out, where auto markets have been established for the sale of cars in the open air.

Proprietors of these places do not always use good judgement in keeping them clean, and, in many instances, the auto parks look more like municipal dumping grounds than commercial markets.

Auto Club officials suggest that in a general endeavor to promote the beautification of local scenery city authorities insist upon a general clean-up of open air auto markets. Not but that the Club believes that the markets are uniquely interesting to eastern visitors and therefore an asset to the community, but that these markets should look more like what they are intended for than junk piles.

Recently there has been a noticeable improvement in the condition of such markets throughout the southern part of the state, but many of the most prominent ones are the worst offenders. In these every old rusty part of a car that has been torn off is scattered here and there over the landscape until the place looks like where the cat had dragged everything it did not want.

Clean up your open air markets, advises the Auto Club, and get ready for the flood of eastern visitors next winter!

FERGUSONS RETURN FROM AUTO TRIP

A. L. Ferguson, vice principal of the high school and Mrs. Ferguson have been in Glendale for a few days this week after returning from an auto tour with Mrs. Ferguson's father, Dr. J. J. Dickover, and his two sons, Stanley Dickover and E. R. Dickover, vice consul to Kobe, Japan.

Their itinerary took them to Mohave and Bishop, over the Tioga Pass into the Yosemite, through the Big Basin to Carmel and on down the coast. The party was on the road about three weeks. Now, Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson are returning to the home of the Dickovers in Santa Barbara for a ten days' visit.

Vice Consul E. R. Dickover will sail from Los Angeles for Kobe the 19th of this month. He returned to the United States to consult officials at Washington and hold conferences on trade conditions with leading importers and exporters in the principal cities of the country.

HARDING IS STOIC IN GOLF; SMILES IF LUCK FAILS

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Warren Gameliel Harding is the nation's greatest golf attraction.

"Chick" Evans, "Jock" Hutchison and "Bobby" Jones notwithstanding, Warren G. Harding has a bigger gallery each time that he plays golf than any other golfer in the United States.

If the President saw fit to charge "two bits" per for each person in his gallery every time he wields a "brassie" he would net a neat little sum that might run a close second to the salary check that the Treaury Department sends him twice a month.

All Washington likes to watch the President golf, and to date most of Washington has seen him at the game. No one has heard him, which speaks well for his temper.

The President plays most frequently on the nine-hole course in East Potomac Park, which is maintained by the Government for the public of Washington. Whenever he appears at the first tee he is immediately surrounded by a half-hundred golfers and all of the way down the course has an increasing "gallery." Most of the golfers let the President "go through," while they stand on the edge of the fairway and watch him, and it doesn't seem to feaze him a bit.

Warren G. Harding's collective golf cards may not look well enough to be framed, but he is a rare golfer, for he never displays extreme joy or chagrin over his game. Like most of the garden variety of golfers, he spends a good bit of his time in the bunkers and raises much dust. but, unlike most golfers, he doesn't raise "Cain" with the dust. He just shoots away until he is out of the hazard and back on the fairway, and never a word or even an ugly look.

Some two score or more old-time golfers stood by in amazement a short time ago and watched the President drive into a sandpit 100 yards from the tee, on a par three hole. The President watched his ball sink in the sand, walked to it very deliberately, chose a spoon and tried for an "out." No luck, but plenty of sand in the air and all over the Presidential golfer. One more try with the spoon, and the same net result. On the third shot the little old ball went shooting into the air and carried twenty yards over the green. The President switched his cigar from one corner of his mouth to the other and, without even muttering, walked on.

When the Chief Executive was out of hearing, one of the old timers who was standing by exploded, "Hell, he can't be human! Three dubs and not a single word!"

The old timer followed along to the green. The President drew a six on a par three hole.

"Nice work, Joe," said the President to Senator Frelinghuysen, his opponent, who holed out in three.

Turning toward the next tee, the President stopped in the midst of his "gallery" and asked a youth for a match.

"Hell, he is human, after all, eh, wot?" croaked the old timer.

This was but a fair example of the Presidential control at golf. The Chief Executive doesn't always hit them where he would like them to go, but he has perfect control of his temper and tongue, and one bad hole doesn't ruin his game, for he goes after the next hole harder than ever.

Gibson, formerly members of Battery F. 143rd Field artillery, will, with about 150 other members of this same battery, gather on Sunday, at Laguna Beach for a "general outing of the boys." Shortly after returning from overseas duty these boys formed themselves into an organization and have been meeting occasionally ever since. This battery was the first to be mustered into the service in California and it did duty in France for six months.

VULCANIZER WRENCH

Every motorist who uses a gasoline vulcanizer often burns his fingers removing the thumb nuts after a heat and often wishes for a wrench that would do the trick. Such a wrench can be made from a piece of 3-4 inch pipe. A slot should be cut in the bottom of the pipe so that it will hold the nut. A small rod placed through a hole in the upper end of the pipe serves well as a handle and makes it an easy matter to remove the most stubborn nut. This wrench will also be found very useful in many other places about the car.

SANITARIUM ARRIVALS

Among those who have signed the register at the Glendale Sanitarium recently are Miss Jane and Miss Clyde Opelt, 349 El Molino street, Pasadena; Dr. H. A. Moral, Greenville; W. E. Gilbert, South Lancaster; Beuba Kerchner, 1157 Appleton street, Los Angeles; Miss Louise Childers, 512 East Second street, Pomona, and George W. Gee, Los Angeles.

COFFEE KING WINS SUCCESS BY WORK

F. Booth of 318 East Broadway says that business is good and declares that he can prove it. He backs up his assertion by a review of the growth of his own business since its inception here eleven years ago. Mr. Booth began selling tea, coffee, spices, etc., to the residents of Tropico and Glendale from his home in Tropico. For six months he delivered his orders in a basket on his arm covering the valley on foot at regular intervals, rain or shine. Incidentally there was nothing "soft" to that job. His first day's receipts totaled twenty cents.

Mr. Booth never became discouraged. Soon the basket became too heavy and he purchased a bicycle and clamped a wire basket on the front for delivery purposes.

Business continued to pick up and son he outgrew the bicycle and hired a horse and buggy three days a week in which to deliver his sales. The rig was obtained from the Showalter livery stable, formerly of Broadway. After one year with the horse and buggy F. B. purchased a bread wagon for $200 and hired a horse for $1 a day.

After three years of delivering in this wagon Mr. Booth sold it for $50 and bought an especially equipped Ford delivery for $560, paying $25 a month. At this time Booth decided it would be a good thing to rent a little store, so he located on Broadway, near Maryland. Later he moved across the street to his present location.

The record made by his Ford delivery car is interesting. For five years this car has been in almost daily operation and during that time traveled more than 165,000 miles, and it is still running "strong."

In this work of building up a business in Glendale, Mr. Booth was ably assisted by his wife. During their entire residence in Glendale neither Mr. nor Mrs. Booth has had a vacation. It is this untiring effort along the business line that has brought them success.

About 18 months ago they sold their home in Tropico, where they had lived for 9 years and invested in a corner business lot on East Broadway, where they intend sometime to build stores and apartments Mr. and Mrs. Booth also own a lot on South Kenwood street, where they are now constructing a bungalow on the rear.

A four-apartment building will be erected on the front of this lot as soon as arrangements can be made. They intend soon to dispose of their business and take things easy for a few years.

TWO NEW BUSINESS BLOCKS REPORTED

The sale of a lot at the corner of Brand boulevard and Garfield avenue has been made through the agency of Lusby and Campbell to Mr. Ketchke of Los Angeles. The new owner intends, in the near future, to put up a business building on his new purchase. This firm also reports the sale of two business lots on the San Fernando road near Brand boulevard, on to Christian Orff and the other to Miss Corinne E. Orff, both of whom reside at 465 West Milford street. A business block will be constructed on these lots in the near future.

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready to use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.

THOUGHT FOR TODAY—The best kind of a "business head" is one that co-operates with a pair of good business hands.

YOUR BRAIN AND YOUR BODY

You say the Einstein theory is too scientific for you to try to understand, which may be true, but is it not also true that you refuse to think about other theories which are less puzzling but would require hard thinking to understand?

Are you a laggard when it comes to applying your brain to any problem?

Is it not equally true that you are averse to concentration on some practical matters which need your attention?

And yet you wonder why you do not make more headway in the world.

A successful man was heard to say that a certain person was a great worker in a physical way.

"If he did not work so hard and did more thinking he would be better off," another man replied.

Have you ever realized that this may be the trouble with you?

You spend a lot of time in physical effort, get so weary that you say you are too tired to think, and probably it is just this hard work upon which you have rather prided yourself which stands in the way of your advancement.

If you are capable of thinking and planning—get at it, and keep at it, and make the physical exercise just enough to keep you fit to do more thinking.

AVERTING AN ALLIANCE

Serge Markaroff, Russian fugitive in Paris and leader of the ill-fated revolution against the czar in 1906, predicts a world triumvirate of the future consisting of Russia, Germany and the United States. The prophesies of Markaroff have failed many times, and this latest will most assuredly add to the list. But, though erroneous, it is a prediction worthy of thought. It reminds us of what might have happened if President Harding had not reconsidered his policies and decided to accept the working principles of the Versailles treaty, even though rejecting the treaty in name.

If the United States had continued its Senate-made policy of isolation, refraining from joining a friendly hand with the Allies in settling the after-war problems, nothing would have been more natural than for the powers outside the League of Nations to become commercially and economically allied. The league, as long as it exists, must have at its command sufficient force to protect its own members. There would have sprung up at once a rivalry between the league and the outsiders and Russia, Germany and the United States would have been thrown together in an alliance against the allied powers. It was a very gratifying move on the part of Mr. Harding when he abandoned the Johnson-Lodge-Knox isolation policy.

A "Never Again" society is being organized in Germany. A similar society became defunct in this country about the time prohibition came in.

Instead of worrying about pensions for our ex-presidents, it might be a good idea to plan some sort of a home for the Senate bitter-enders.

Can we ever get back to normalcy until the old wooden Indians are brought out and placed in front of the cigar stores again?

Governor Len Small says he is the victim of a plot. Whether he had anything to do with the plot will be learned later.

A Toronto landlord charges prospective tenants $2 to look at his apartments. And yet they hang men for murder.

GRAVE AND GAY

"G'wan, youall ain't got no sense, nohow."

"Ain't got no sense? What's dis yere haid for?"

"Dat thing? Dat ain't no haid, dat's pes' er button on top er yer body ter keep yer backbone from unravelin'."

Drill Sergeant (at top of his voice)—"When I give the command 'Halt!' you bring the foot which is on the ground to the side of the one which is in the air, and remain motionless.'

"Its a very warm day," observed Billy. "I hope that you won't think it silly
If I say that this heat
Makes me think 'twould be sweet
If one were a coolie in Chile."

An elderly man was persuaded by one of his sons to go with him to a foot ball match.

The son, intent upon giving his father a good time, had booked two seats in the grand stand.

"Now," said the son, joyfully, "you'll see more excitement for your two dollars than you've ever seen before."

The old man grunted.

"I don't know so much about that," he said, dismally. "Two dollars was all I paid for my marriage license!"

"The war, prohibition, taxes, and a new President have turned everything so topsy turvy that we are losing our sense of proportion and are getting like a lot of children,' said Mr. Bryan recently. "A great many people I come in contact with nowadays remind me of little Muriel. Muriel the other day came running to her mother crying: 'O-o-o mamma Did you hear the ladder fall down just now?' 'No, dear. How did the ladder happen to fall down?' 'Well, papa was washing the window and it slipped and when it fell it broke three flower pots. I told him you'd be cross.' 'Oh, dear' cried the mother, 'I hope your father hasn't hurt himself!' ' I don't think he has yet,' replied the child; 'he was hanging onto the windowsill when I came away to tell you about the flower pots.'"

Mrs. Profiteers was very proud of her daughter's connection with a smart private school. "My dear," she said to her friend, "she's learning civics, if you please." "What's civics?" asked her friend. Civics? My dear, don't you know? Why it's the science of interfering in public affairs."

"Well, Pat," said Bridget, "what kind of a bird have you brought home in the cage?" "Well, its a raven," replied Pat. "A raven. And what did you bring home a bird like that for?" "Well, I read in a paper the other night that a raven has been known to live for three hundred years. I don't believe it, so I am going to put it to the test."

COZY CORNER

A Place for Rice in Your Menu

1 cup rice
3 pints milk
1 cup cocoanut
1-2 teaspoon salt
2 eggs, beaten
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
2 tablespoons butter substitute, melted
1 cup sugar

Wash rice, put it into the upper pan of a double boiler with the milk, and cook over hot water for two hours; then add cocoanut, salt, eggs, lemon rind, butter substitute, and sugar. Turn into a greased, fire-proof pudding dish, stand in a pan of hot water, and bake in a moderate oven for twenty minutes. Decorate with cocoanut and serve with hot milk or custard.

Russian Fluff

Cooked rice and any left-over meal. Put through chopped tomatoes. Salt and pepper. Put a layer of cooked rice in baking dish, next a layer of meat, then rice again, and repeat. Have top layer of rice. Pour over all about 1½ cups of tomatoes. Bake in oven about three-quarters of an hour. If I have any gravy, I add it to the layers of meat.

Curried Rice and Eggs

3 hard-boiled eggs
1 onion
1 tablespoon flour
Salt and pepper
2 cups cooked rice
1 tablespoon butter
1 teaspoon curry powder
1 cup milk or stock

Boil the eggs hard in the morning when preparing breakfast, remove shells and cut in halves. Blend the flour and butter together, add onion, and brown, then the milk or stock and stir constantly until smooth and thick, season with the curry powder and salt and pepper to taste. Arrange the egg-halves on a deep plate or dish and surround with cooked rice; then pour over the curry sauce.

Rice Griddle Cakes

Reheat two cups of cooked rice. Add three-fourths of a teaspoon of salt and two cups of milk to the hot rice. Cool and add three egg yolks, beaten, and two cups of flour sifted with four teaspoons of baking powder Mix well and fold in two stiffly beaten egg whites. Cook on hot greased griddle.

Nut Loaf

Four teacups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ½ cup sugar, teaspoon salt, 1 cup chopped walnuts. Mix all dry and add 2 cups milk. Put in pan and let rise 20 minutes. Bake 40 minutes.

Cake Frosting

One unbeaten white of egg, three tablespoons cold water, one cup sugar, pinch of cream of tartar. Boil in double boiler for six minutes and while cooling beat and when right consistency spread on cool cake.

Picnic Chocolate Cake

Put into mixing bowl.
4 rounded teaspoonfuls of cocoa
½ teaspoonful salt
1 teaspoonful vanilla
1 egg
1 cupful granulated sugar
1 tablespoonful butter or butter substitute
Beat together till creamy.
Dissolve ¼ teaspoonful soda in 1 cupful sour cream.
Add to the former mixture.
Sift 2 teaspoonfuls baking powder with 2 cups flour.
Beat into the cake mixture.
Bake in hot oven for five minutes, then lower the heat so cake can cook in very slow oven. Chocolate will scorch easily. If the cake is baked in two thin layers, it will need about 25 minutes. If in one layer, a little longer. Test by tapping the top with the finger, if cake is done there will be no mark left.

Ice with while icing made by beating together:
1½ cupful confectioner's sugar
1 tablespoonful butter
½ teaspoonful vanilla
Cream to make a smooth paste just soft enough to spread.
This is a very easy cake to bake and is delicious for a picnic.

Seed Cakes

The old-fashioned seed cakes which our grand and great-grand-mothers enjoyed have not lost any of their deliciousness. Wash one cupful of butter in one-half cupful of rose water, then cream it and add two cupfuls of sugar. Beat four eggs and add to the first mixture with three tablespoonfuls of caraway seed and three drops of the oil of cinnamon; add one-half cupful of boiling water with one-half teaspoonful of soda and a half teaspoonful of salt. Add four cupfuls of flour and, if needed, a little milk. Drop on buttered paper or baking sheets in balls the size of nutmegs and bake in a moderate oven. This recipe dates back to 1700.

Crumb Cake

Here is a good cake recipe for the busy housewife as it requires no frosting: Two cups flour, 1 cup sugar, ¾ cup butter. Rub these together until it looks like crumbs. Take out one cup of it, mix the rest with 1 cup sour milk, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon cloves, 1 teaspon cinnamon, 1 egg, 1 cup raisins, 1 cup currents. Put in pan, sprinkle crumbs on top of cake, put in oven to bake. This cake is good for a busy mother to make, as it requires no frosting.

STUDIO NEWS AND GOSSIP

Herb Rawlinson to Star

Herbert Rawlinson, in his time one of the most popular of picture stars, is now suporting Priscilla Dean in "The Conflict." Upon his completion he again will be accorded all the privileges of stardom. His first picture will be called "The Black Bag." It is a tale of mystery. His second starring vehicle will be known as "The Substitute Millionaire."

"The Biggest Spectacle"

Katherine Hilliker, title writer for the Chester Outing picture, is doing the same stunt for "The Ship" and "Theodora," Italian spectacles which Samuel Goldwyn wil release in America. Miss Hilliker says "Theodora" is undoubtedly the biggest spectacle ever filmed.

Claire Windsor With Mayo

Claire Windsor, former leading woman for Lois Weber Paramount productions, has been engaged by Universal to support Frank Mayo in a forthcoming feature, "Dr. Jim," a story by Stuart Paton.

Anita's Congenial Role

Anita Stewart's role in "The Price of Happiness," soon to be released by First National, treats of the disillusionment of a young girl who shut herself out from happiness by placing the attainment of luxury before it. Miss Stewart said recently, "Playing the part was an enjoyable pastime," as it was like a demonstration of one of my own theories. We can not all write the scenarios of our lives, however, and the mistakes that precede the awakening are often very costly—some times fatal. In the picture the girl comes out of the entanglements of the plot much wiser and none the worse for her experience, but actualities are not so considerate."

Paul Powell Returning

Paul Powell, Famous Players-Lasky director, has completed the filming of E. Phillips Oppenheim's story, "Dangerous Moments," at the corporation's London studio and is returning to Los Angeles. Powell is a graduate of the David Wark Griffith school of directing and scored real screen fame when he handled Mary Pickford in the picturization of "Pollyanna."

Song Bird Scenario Writer

Song birds are now fluttering in the meshes of the cinema. The latest to be lured is Grace Drew, known far and wide as the prima donna of two of the most popular musical comedies ever written—"The Chocolate Soldier' and "Alma, Where Do You Live?" Miss Drew is now writing screen stories and is enamored of the game. Bebe Daniels is filming her first effort, "Spring Fever." In its writing Katherine Pinkerton collaborated with her.

Pearl White says she is through with divorces for a year or so, at least.

* * *

Bill Hart's sister, Mary, has been seriously ill. Bill was constantly in attendance at her bedside.

* * *

Rex Ingram, director of "The Four Horsemen," will go to Europe to make a picture or two.

* * *

Katherine MacDonald's next First National picture, will have the title of "The Infidel."

* * *

Wesley Barry will wear evening clothes in "School Days," the next picture in which he will be featured.

* * *

Anna May Wong, Chinese film star, helps her father in his Los Angeles laundry when not busy making pictures.

* * *

Priscilla Dean, Universal star, is shooting the concluding scenes of "The Conflict" at the studio near Los Angeles.

* * *

David Butler's next effort will be in "In Walked Jimmy." His latest, "Bing-Bang-Boom," is about ready for showing.

* * *

Earle Williams continues to picturize melodramas on the West Coast. His latest is "Bring Him In."

* * *

Marie Doro is the star of "Beatrice," an Italian made picture, which will be released by Goldwyn in the fall.

* * *

Elsie Ferguson's next stage play will be "Varying Shores," by Zoe Akins. She will continue to make four pictures a year for Paramount.

* * *

Frankie Kiolet, a Seattle girl and winner of a recent "brains, beauty and popularity" contest, is being given a tryout by Universal.

* * *

Jack Mulhall, having finished his engagement with Mack Sennett, is back in the Metro studio as the principal male support for Viola Dana.

* * *

Norman Kerry will go to the London studios of Famous-Players-Lasky, where he will have an important role in a George Fitzmaurice production, "Three Live Ghosts."

* * *

Charles Wakeman Cadman is composing the musical score for the "Rubaiyat" of Omar Khayyam which Ferdinand Pinney Earle is producing for the screen.

Bremerton's Human Story

By FREDERICK CLARKE.

(©, 1921, Western Newspaper Union.)

Bremerton huddled up in his seat, looked out of the window of the Westbound Limited.

The train slowed, drew into the station, waited a few moments, and then puffed out again. A man came into the carriage and stopped at Bremerton's side.

Excuse me, sir, but are you John Bremerton?" asked the other.

"Well?" Bremerton demanded very curtly.

"I was sure that I was on your track. I knew I had recognized you. I want the inside story of the failure of the Cornucopia bank. I am a representative of the Iowa Free-Soiler.

"You see, sir," the reporter continued, "of course we have all the details of the failure. I want a real human story."

"A real human story!" repeated Bremerton mechanically, and smiled a little bitterly at the irony of events which had left his life, except for his widened experience, just where it had been when he had left Framington, a penniless country boy, 15 years before. And his first sweetheart—Lizzie Gray! He had written—every day for a month; after a year his letters ceased. After two years he had stopped thinking of her. He had heard, not long afterward, that she was married.

"Framington! Change here for Des Moines!" shouted the conductor, and Bremerton started up hastily and seized his suit case. He had wanted to see the old town again.

Standing upon the platform he found the reporter at his elbow. He had entirely forgotten him.

"I'm afraid there's a wait of two hours for the Des Moines train," he said. "We just missed the connection. Now, Mr. Bremerton, won't you please help me with this story? It will mean a great deal to me, sir."

Bremerton was a man of quick decisions. He pulled out his watch.

"Three o'clock," he said, glancing at the dial. "I'll be back at four, and I'll give you that story."

He strolled out of the station. Except that a few new buildings had sprung up it was astonishing how little the town had changed during the 15 years of his absence. And at the end of the lane was the Grays' cottage. There was the rustic stile where Lizzie and he had met those 15 years ago.

A woman was walking up the lane. She had turned in from below, just where the Gray cottage abutted on the pike. She would see him when she came out of the bend a few feet from the style. Bremerton remembered how his heart had hammered that morning he had first kissed her. It was here, and Lizzie had walked just as she walked now, unconscious that he waited there. He had wanted to run away, as he wanted to run now. And she had looked up suddenly and seen him, just as she looked up now.

And both had trembled, just as both were trembling now.

And he had kissed her, just as he kissed her now.

She had hardly changed except that her figure had grown mature and her face more thoughtful, graver.

"You are—not married, then?" he stammered.

She looked at him coldly, the flush of shame slowly fading out of her cheeks.

"How can you ask me that, John?" she said.

"But I heard—I heard—"

"That's why you ceased to write?"

"No," he answered. "I ceased to write before I was told. But still, I am sure that if I had not heard so I should some day have come back."

"To redeem your pledge, John? Well, I release you from it. So let your conscience rest. My school occupies all my life and is my whole interest. While you—you are, or were, a very busy man and a very famous one."

"Then you have heard?" he asked.

"Of course I've heard of you, John Bremerton," she answered. "I—we have all followed your career with the greatest interest," she continued, coloring faintly. "You know we are all proud of you in Framington."

"Oh, if only I had never gone!" he cried. Lizzie, I've come back to stay —with you."

"With me?" she repeated. "With me, John?"

"I want you," he cried. "I have never known what happiness meant since I went away. Will you be my wife?"

"You—you mean that, John?" she stammered.

He drew her into his arms, and she lay there at last, happily.

"Tell me you love me," he whispered.

"I have always loved you, John," she answered back. "And somehow I always knew that you would come. Oh!"

She disengaged herself hastily, looking up the lane in terror, and, following her glance, Bremerton perceived the reporter approaching them.

"I was just taking a walk—" he began. "I thought I need not sit in that station till four. I didn't know—"

"That's all right, son," answered Bremerton. "Never mind that appointment, but sit down on that stile. I'm going to give you a real human story."

MISS SULLIVAN TO WED NEXT MONTH

At a beautifully appointed dinner and garden party, given Friday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sullivan, at their home, 711 South Central avenue, the engagement of their daughter, Miss Eileen Elizabeth Sullivan, to Francis Gordon, was announced. The wedding will be held next month.

The table had been placed in the shade of a sheltering palm and was illuminated by festoons of Japanese lanterns. A kewpie bride between the floral pieces which centered the board gave a hint of the purpose of the party, which was further revealed by the place cards.

Guests for whom covers were laid were: Miss Naomi Berier, Miss Dorothy Hunt, Miss Mabel Ludwig, Mrs. William Sullivan, Miss Louise Ayala, Miss Corinne Orff, Miss Ruth Ryan, Miss Naomi Eastman and Miss Lillian Schick.

Following the dinner, the greater part of the evening was devoted to dancing.

Miss Sullivan is one of the most popular members of the younger set, and her friends will be glad to know that she is not to be taken from the local circles. Mr. Gordon is assistant secretary-treasurer of the Forest Lawn Memorial Park association.

Officers of the Glendale Elks' Lodge are to enter the annual ritualistic contest, and are rehearsing for a preliminary with the Santa Monica and Pasadena lodges, which will take place in Glendale in connection with the regular lodge meeting Monday, August 22. The preliminary rehearsals are tryouts from which the winners are selected by a group of judges appointed by the state association. These will then be pitted against other winners in similar preliminaries.

Not until the annual state convention in October, at Santa Cruz, will the winner be chosen from the four final competing teams.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally if You Eat Meat Regularly

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they slugishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

Uncle Walt's Story

INEXPERIENCE

"YOUNG REIMENSNYDER'S wife thought she was going to get rich quick," observed the druggist. "She read somewhere that there is enormous profit in raising incubator chickens, so she bought an incubator and then filled it with storage eggs. All the women in the neighborhood are grinning over it, and they have joked about it so much that Mrs. Reimensnyder flies into a passion whenever the matter is mentioned."

"I know just how she feels," said the village patriarch. "People are always sensitive about the mistakes due to inexperience. It is foolish to be so, but we can't help it. If a man makes a break through his own chuckleheadedness, he can laugh over it and pretend he enjoys it; but if he makes a mistake simply because he doesn't know any better, he is full of mortification from the roof of his hat down. It seems to jar his vanity.

"About the most humiliating experience a man can have is to get stung in a horse trade. The average man doesn't know anything about a horse. He can see if it has four legs and a tail and a pair of eyes, but he is oblivious to all the things that make a horse a good one or a poor one. If he gets the worst end of a trade he should be a philosopher, and say that while he isn't a success at swapping plugs, he can wind up a phonograph or stoke a furnace better than any man in the country. But he gets mad, and the fact that he was stuck in such a trade leaves a sore place that never heals.

"I can remember a break my first wife made when we were newly married. She invited some folks to dinner, and, after much deliberation, decided to have a roast duck as the chief dish, and told the hired girl to go ahead and prepare the bird. Now, a duck is mighty fine eating, what there is of it, but there is mighty little substance to it. A duck is a mere shell. It doesn't run to meat at all. A good hungry man could eat three ducks at a sitting and look around for more.

"My wife, who had lived at hotels and boarding houses all her life, supposed a duck was a solid chunk of meat, and thought there would be enough of the bird left, after the dinner, to keep us in cold meat for a week. Well, there were eight people at that dinner party, and each one had a piece of duck about the size of a one-cent stamp.

"Everybody but my wife thought the mistake was funny, but the most superficial observer could see at a glance that her heart was broken. She tried her blamedest to smile, but right in the middle of the effort she broke off with a yell, and left the room to weep a few stanzas and she never did recover from that humiliation. I tried time and again to convince her that there was nothing to be ashamed of in such a misadventure, but she thought the finger of scorn would be leveled at her as long as she lived.

"I can't sit here and moralize in this strain all day, but I feel just as sick as anybody when I make a break. When the mayor was buried three years ago there was a big procession in his honor. A lot of mounted men led the parade, and if you were looking you doubtless saw me. I was riding a big black horse, when the big black horse wasn't riding me. I never supposed there was any trick in riding a horse, so when they asked me to sit on a foaming charger I didn't hesitate a minute. I got seasick before I was on the nag two minutes, and I let go the lines and hung to its mane and the fool horse cavorted all over the street, so that I looked like the idiot who tries to ride a trick mule at the circus.

"My evolutions simply broke up that funeral parade and turned it into a joy ride. I really wasn't to blame in any way, but whenever I think of the episode a cold sweat breaks out on me, and I feel like offering myself to the first comer for seventeen cents."

Moral Agitation.

"I understand you have been having a crime wave in Crimson Gulch," "It ain't that at all," protested Cactus Joe. "It's a great reform. The lawbreakers all got suddenly impressed with righteous indignation and started in shooting one another up indiscriminately."

MATRIMONY SHOULD BE TAUGHT, SAYS CHICAGO JUDGE

(By International News Service)

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Do the girls of today know too much about sex problems and not enough about housework, cooking and things essentially to becoming good mothers?

Superior Judge Harry A. Lewis, of Chicago, says they do not and urges a plan to include obligations of matrimony as a part of a course of study in Chicago high schools.

Peter A. Mortenson, City Superintendent of schools; Edward J. Tobin, Superintendent of Schools for Cook County, and many Chicago men and women say the girls of today know too much already and oppose Judge Lewis's plan.

"Marriage is too sacred," asserts one woman, "for open discussion in classes or among children after classes. The subject would be treated lightly by the children, and they would not be benefited. I believe it is the duty of the mother to teach her daughters all that is necessary to know about marriage."

Another woman considers "the source" and gives her opinion as follows:

"Most teachers are old maids, so what do they know about marriage? I believe high school girls know all they need to know about sex, but they should learn more about keeping house, sewing and cooking, and the best place to learn these is in their homes."

One woman interviewed—yes, she is unmarried—thinks the Lewis plan is good and should assist girls in selecting husbands and may reduce the number of divorces.

Of course the opinion of mere man in such matters "doesn't mean anything," but here are two that sound reasonable at that.

One man says: "Nine-tenths of the persons getting married today are ignorant of the obligations of marriage. The majority of the girls of today do not receive the proper training at home to become good mothers or wives, and, while I do not approve of this subject being discussed in the schoolroom, if the children don't get proper instruction at home they must get it elsewhere."

An another: "A healthy home life instills all the morals necessary, and if the parents are companions to their children they do not have to go to school to learn the problems of matrimony—how to cook, sew and become mothers and wives."

One woman believes high schools should teach modesty in dress first, then cooking, sewing and housekeeping.

"THE SKY PILOT" STILL AT PALACE

One of the most gripping scenes ever enacted before the motion picture camera is the thrilling cattle stampede which furnished a smashing climax to "The Sky Pilot," showing again today at the Palace Grand Theatre.

"The Sky Pilot," adapted from Ralph Connor's story, was directed by King Vidor, the young director genius whose "Jack Knife Man" was heralded as one of the best pictures of the past year.

The cattle stampede takes place at a most critical time. The heroine is racing across the plains to warn the men attending a roundup, of a plot to steal the cattle by means of an underground passage, when the terror-stricken cattle break loose and make a mad dash toward the approaching girl. Her horse throws her and the entire herd is stampeding toward her when the "sky pilot" takes a chance in a thousand to save the girl.

The scenes showing the "sky pilot" doggedly standing over the helpless girl in his determination to make the cattle veer to the sides is indeed one of the most courageous bits of dramatic action put on the screen.

Of added interest is the fact that the characters appearing in "The Sky Pilot" actually comprise an all-star cast. John Bowers, who takes the part of the Pilot, has carried leading roles in a number of the biggest successes of the day. Colleen Moore, playing the leading feminine role, will be remembered as the little Irish colleen in "Dinty," and David Butler has been starring for more than a year in various productions.

Persons who saw the show last night at the Palace Grand say that Buster Keaton has scored another big triumph as a "serious" comedian in "The Goat" which is being shown again today. Ludicrous as a title for a film the plot of the picture is even more ludicrous. You can't keep from laughing at Buster's woes.

Whipping Post Only Cure for Criminals

(By International News Service)

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 6.—The return of the public whipping post as a crime preventive is advocated by Victor J. Miller, president of the St. Louis Police Board.

"Handling criminals with kid gloves is not a successful method,' declares Miller in his contention for the bringing back of the drastic erstwhile "punishment stile."

"We cannot accord criminals the same treatment as we would a gentleman," says Miller. "I know the whipping post is illegal, but it would be of great benefit in many instances if it could be used. Many criminals do not care particularly about jail or even prison terms, but if a big policeman takes them into an alley and gives them a good beating it does much to keep them straight for a while.

"Our St. Louis holdover has the softiest planks in the world and the man who gets in them always says he was put there for doing nothing, not thinking that if he did do something he could keep out."

Criminals would rather load in jail than work, Miller asserts.

Partisan politics works to the detriment of police departments in the larger cities of America, declares Mr. Miller in a sweeping denunciation of partisanship.

"When voters back a man,' he said, "they should back him because he is capable of serving efficiently—not because he wears the label of a party. I am a Republican, but I don't know way. But I forget party in doing my duty and there is no set of politicians tell us how to run our department.

POLITICS BARRED

"St. Louis has the most efficient police department in America. It is for the reason that we don't have a gang of political pets serving on the force and giving protection to a bunch of lounge lizard law violators. We run the department as a business organization. Graft seldom slips in and when we find graft we immediately eliminate it. Soft drink bars are not selling booze here under police protection while politicians collect money from them.

Reciting how crime has been reduced in St. Louis, Miller declared that booze will continue to be sold in soft drink bars without knowledge of the police. It would take 10,000 policemen to enforce prohibition in this city alone, he said adding that he does not "suppose prohibition will be effectually enforced until the taste or desire of liquor dies out.'

"Right now," Miller stated, "we are devoting our time to the stopping of crime. That is not going far enough Thought should be given to crime prevention. When we get to the source of the crime the problem is solved. We are trying to make it so hot for everybody having any part in crime that there will be no ambition to engage in the business. When criminals see they are not going to get away with their nefarious work they'll quit.

KID-GLOVE METHODS

"I believe in discouraging younger criminals. Kid-glove methods won't do that. Some social uplift clubs have a perverted idea about going easy, but the only way to reform a criminal is with a shotgun or a public whipping post. Criminals would have a horror of the whipping post and drastic as such punishment may seem, it would be less costly in the long run, all angles considered.

"Immorality and crime work together. Eliminate the one and you're rid of the other. People say it is impossible to eradicate certain vices—that they are necessary. That is not true. The social evil can be eliminated. If it cannot, then civilization has been a failure. Statistics show that 65 per cent of the lunatics of the country are so because of one great form of this evil. I shall always protest against it, regardless of the politicians who protect vice or crime. I am to be three and a half more years in office and I shall keep up my work. There is nothing that can deter me. When I quit this thankless job I'd rather go back to my father and mother and say I'd saved one hundred boys and girls than that I had made myself popular by pleasing the petty politicians."

"SUNSET JONES" AT THE GLENDALE

"Sunset Jones' 'is the picture being offered today at the Glendale Theatre along with the vaudeville bill. It is a film story adapted from an epic novel and is said to portray Western life as it has never before been presented on the screen.

While there is the quick action and vivid scenes of the typical Western, there is in this drama a unique element of human emotion and an underlying romance which "gets" the audience. It is more than mere excitement, for the mighty pull between love and duty as it is handled by Charles Clary, makes a lasting impression.

Irene Rich, whose phenomenal rise to stardom has recently been featured in magazines and papers throughout the country, has a prominent role and adds greatly to the attraction. James Gordon and Kathleen O'Connor are also well-known names which appear in this cast.

FROCK COAT FLOCK OUSTS HOMESPUN MINISTER

(By International News Service)

WORCESTER, Mass, Aug. 6.—"Forgive them, for they know not what they do!" was the text of a sermon preached in the Jamesville Baptist Church by the Rev. Edward MacPhee, just after he had tendered his resignation as pastor, effective at any time his congregation sees fit. The resignation was accepted, after a stormy debate lasting two and one-half hours.

Mr. MacPhee's resignation was demanded by one faction of the congregation because he was "not up to the social standing of the church and wore homespun clothes in the pulpit, instead of a Prince Albert." Another group insisted that he stay, declaring that, although he does wear homespun he is "delivering the goods." The resignation is to take effect September 15. A deacon who led the opposition, declared that Pastor MacPhee never stayed after church to attend Sunday School sessions and failed to make enough pastoral visits among his flock.

Pastor MacPhee's wife takes in boarders to eke out an existence, her husband's ministerial salary being only $30 a week. He was ordained while working as a mechanic, and, although he made much more money as such, he gave up making trolley cars to preach the Gospel. He has been at the Jamesville church here for several years. After he was ordained he had trouble with his throat and was unable to preach. Until his voice was restored he worked in the car shops.

BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR J. W. PEARSON

J. W. Pearson, the realty man, who lives at 1100 North Louise, had a birthday Friday, but it did not dent his consciousness to any great extent until Mrs. Pearson sprung a surprise upon him in the evening. Relatives and friends began dropping in and it was some time before he awakened to the fact that it was a party, and in his honor.

The guest list included the sister-in-law of the honoree, Mrs. Guy Pearson; her sons, Marshall and Guy Pearson, and daughter, Miss Clara Pearson; Miss Mary Logan, Rexford Thompson, Miss Julia Brown, Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Ireland, of Los Angeles, and Mrs. M. G. Moore, sister of the hostess.

As the Pearsons are a music loving family, the piano and victrola figured considerably in the evening's entertainment, one of the numbers being a wedding march played for the benefit of the two engaged couples present.

Refreshments were served by the hostess. 'Mr. Pearso n declared it was the best birthday celebration he had ever had.

SCUDDERS, IN EAST, YEARN FOR HOME

A. W. Scudder, commander of N. P. Banks Post G. A. R., and Mrs. Scudder are visiting friends in Ohio and have written interesting accounts of their impressions of the east after a sojourn in California.

In a letter dated July 30 at Akron, Ohio. and addressed to the acting commander of the local post, T. C. Fuller, they wrote:

"Was much pleased to get yours of the 10th. Glad to know you are getting alone so nicely with the work of the Post. We saw an account in the "Press" of the Echo Park picnic, also about the Elks, and that times are still good in California. Not so here. Money is very close and nearly all building is at a standstill, evidenced by the many foundations bleaching in the disagreeable weather.

"We are longing to get back among people with more cheerful faces and less depressed hearts. Have had much unexpected business to attend to which has put us back in our visiting.

"We have suffered more from heat than during our nearly four years in California. What do you think of 91 at bedtime in a humid atmosphere? It rains frequently and things grow luxuriantly. Corn is the best we ever knew it to be in Ohio and very far advanced. Wheat is not yielding what the straw would seem to warrant.

"Death has sadly reduced the number of our friends of two years ago. Hope this finds you and yours at your best."

ITINERARY OF LANES

Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Lane, of 327 Vine street, who left Glendale the first of the week for a three months' stay in the east will spend most of the time in Canada, visiting Remington, Chatham, Toronto and the Niagara Falls. Mr. Lane was born in Remington and Mrs. Lane in Chatham, and it is twenty years since they visited or have seen their many relatives located around those places.

Dear Tommy: Papa and I went to the theatre the other night, and Papa had to go out between the acts to see an old customer of his.

You would have thought he had stolen something the way people stared at him, so I invented a scheme like this.

Then I built a model in the barn. Papa thought it was great—

And brought a theatre manager in to see it. He said there was a fortune in it.

Papa got on the ladder and I started to pull him over the "aisle."

But it wasn't strong enough to hold Papa, and now he won't get it patented.

Yours, etc., Willie.
